PUBLIC SPIRIT.

The character of any town is determined by its permanent not its transient citizens. Most of the people living in this town either have lived or will live here during a good part of their lives. These people are therefore largely answerable for the town's past and its future. If they are enterprising and broad minded the town as a political unit will adopt an enterprising and broad gaged policy. Making one's home is not wholly comprised in the building of a house on a lot with a fence around it and a walk in front. Of necessity the influence within the home are of paramount interest to the head of a family. But the influences outside of the home—the atmosphere of the community—is almost as important to the individual home maker as is the atmosphere of his fireside.

No citizen can safely live for himself alone. He is one of the component parts of his community and—whether he be active or passive—he exerts a potent influence in determining its character. Knowing as everybody does know, that early environment leaves a permanent impress upon the child it is difficult to explain the difference of citizens with respect to their part in making the environment in which they, their children and their neighbors' children spend the formative period of their lives. Time out of mind everybody has talked of the importance of a proper moral, mental and spiritual atmosphere. But why not give due consideration to the business atmosphere? Merchants and their patrons recognize the value and importance of individual business enterprise, but they often overlook the value and importance of community enterprise. Every community is organized for business purposes—to carry on the public business of its citizens. The methods, the economy and effectiveness with which the business of this community is conducted depend upon the enterprise of the community's business managers—public officials. The character of these officials is determined by the character of the citizenship of this community. If we want the public business conducted in an enterprising and efficient manner we must elect enterprising and efficient men to office and we must support them in their work. To do this all good citizens must show their interest in the public's business to the extent of learning what shall be done, how it should be done and whether it is being properly done. To do this is to be broad gaged, public spirited and enterprising citizens.

What Is A Gentleman?

Too frequently a man wearing good clothes and spending money freely is called a gentleman, when as matter of fact he is no such thing. Even Satan has been called a gentleman because of his suavity of speech and engaging manners. There isn't a villain on the stage but is handsome, well dressed and of charming appearance. A stage villain that was not polished would be a failure from the very start.

It is not the clothes or the suavity or the education or the birth that makes the gentleman. There is many a Bill Sykes in fashionable coat and patent leathers, and many an Admiral Crichton in greasy overalls and jumpers. There are those who will deny that a man who drinks coffee from his saucer or eats his peas with a spoon is a gentleman. Others will say that the man who fails to take his hat off in an elevator when ladies are present is no gentleman. Again, giving up a seat in a street car may be made the test. There are a thousand and one qualifications for the title. It matters not whether the man is in jeans or denim or broadcloth, or whether he has ten cents in his pocket or $1,000,000 in the bank, he is a gentleman if he is kind, clean, considerate, honest and brave.—Savannah News.

Marshall Weldon Gathered

To His Fathers.

After an illness extending over the past six months, M. H. Weldon one of the towns best known and loved men passed away at six o'clock Thursday morning. He was sixty-six years of age, having been born in May, 1845. He was twice married, his first wife was a Miss Brookshire, who died over thirty years ago and then he married a Miss Welton and she, his last wife survives him, and one son, Clarence E. Weldon of Little Rock, Arkansas. Mr. Weldon was a christian gentleman and was a member of the Baptist church for many years. The funeral was preached by his pastor, Rev. M. E. Miller at his late residence and the interment was at the new cemetery, Friday afternoon. He is survived by two brothers John W. Weldon of this city and Simpson B. Weldon of Metropolis, Ill., they being the two surviving of a large family, Mr. Weldon's grand-daughter, Miss Ruth Dodge made her home with him.

Contracts For Subways.

New York, July 21.—Within ten days work will begin on the new subway, which it is said, will be the most elaborate system of underground thoroughfares in the world. The contract for the system, involving the expenditure of nearly $225,000,000, today was awarded to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co. The system will require from three to four years to finish in its entirety.

Happiest Girl in Lincoln.

A Lincoln, Neb., girl writes: "I had been ailing for some time with chronic constipation and stomach trouble. I began taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and in three days I was able to be up and got better right along. I am the proudest girl in Lincoln to find such a good medicine." For sale by All Dealers.

HERE AND THERE

A DREAM.

Hello, Rulia, where are you from? Just came in from one of the small towns in southeast Missouri and we rode one of those airships back, and just tell you she is the swiftest bird that sails through the air and you just ought see her as she cuts her way through the upper plains with her feather edge and in fact, it is wonderful, going over two miles a minute; sailing in the air, leaving Dexter, Mo., at 8 a. m., and reached here at 9:30. That's going some. We were like old lady, who rode on the train the first time. She said to the passengers "is this me or am I somebody else." So I am thinking, is this "meself." We just simply come in a whiz, over the tallest trees, towns, villages and cities, then with a bound upward we would shoot over the highest hills then suddenly, like the evening bat diving after the candle fly, we would go downward. Then it appeared like we were falling and the gallant hero at the helm would call out "don't catch to the railings." We heard the ringing of a bell and we awoke. And we thought, such is life; and we are traveling rapidly from the cradle to the grave. Sometimes we are sailing with ease, then, there is a sudden turn—here we go up then we come down—then there is some one telling us what not to do. Don't stay in the parting of the ways. Sometime this is a good spirit speaking to us, and sometimes it is an evil spirit. But this old ship of life must keep going and we must be able to discern the evil temptations from good. Press on Bro. Jenkins, we are now thinking of our many friends in town and country, who are very near death's door, whose vitality of life has just about given away. They are confined to an invalid's bed, many are just waiting, gloriously waiting to take passage on the old "Ship of Zion." May we all look to the mark of high calling, which is in Christ Jesus, is our prayer and admonition. J. B. M.

AGED RIVERMAN TO SPEND MONEY BY EASY STAGES

Hunter Ben Jenkins Will Dispose of $500 Inheritance At $35 a Month.

St. Louis, July 19.—Hunter Ben Jenkins, veteran riverman, who received a $500 bequest in the will of Capt. George W. Belt, has assigned it to Charles M. Berkley, for safe keeping. Berkley is to pay Jenkins $35.00 a month until the fund is exhausted. Jenkins says he distrusts his own ability to care for the money.

My proclivity for failing to preserve funds being well known. He declares he is virtually without resources. Horatio W. Belt, nephew of Capt. Belt, assigned $1,000 left him to August W. Bensiek, but gave no reason. The late Will S. Hays, of Louisville, remembered Hunter Ben Jenkins on each anniversary with a felicitous poem.

Summer Colds

Are harder to relieve than winter ones but they yield just as readily to treatment with Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. Sold everywhere. Look for the Bell on the Bottle.
